Meyers Still In Hot Water

Conviction on One Charge Only a Start of His Court Troubles.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — With one legal battle already lost Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers today had many more ahead.

A federal court jury convicted him yesterday of talking a business associate into telling lies to a senate committee investigating the general's wartime business affairs. He is to appear in court Monday to be sentenced.

But the 52-year-old Meyers, onetime air forces deputy purchasing chief, still faces (a) income tax fraud charges at Baltimore and Dayton, O., (b) possible Army court martial, (c) a slander suit and (d) a $10,000 legal claim.

For the witness tampering charges on which a jury of ten men and two women held him guilty yesterday, Meyers could draw a maximum prison term of 30 years.

Judge Holtzoff wanted to put Meyers in jail immediately after the jury verdict yesterday. But the general's attorneys—who said they will appeal his conviction—protested that it is usual for defendants "of his position" to be allowed freedom on bond.

"We don't often have a defendant in this position," Judge Holtzoff snapped.

The court finally allowed Meyers to remain free on $1,000 bond until Monday.

Meyers was convicted of inducing Bleriot H. Lamarre, a former business associate, to commit perjury at a senate war investigating committee inquiry last fall.

Lamarre testified during the trial that he falsely denied to the senators that Meyers received $150,000 wartime profits from the aviation Electric Co., a plane parts concern at Dayton, O.

SEATTLE, March 13—The Seattle CAA control tower, checking on Northwest Airlines plane overdue at Edmonton, Alberta, reported today it had been informed by the Gulkana range station a fire had been sighted on Mt. Sanford 200 miles east of Anchorage, Alaska.

The Gulkana station, about 50 miles west of the mountain, said the plane had reported it was overhead at 11:36 p. m. (PST). No further radio contact was made with the four-engined craft carrying 24 passengers and a crew of six on a charter flight from Shanghai.

The CAA said the flight plan filed by the pilot called for checks at Gulkana and Northway, after leaving Anchorage. The plane was scheduled to have arrived at Edmonton at 5:03 (PST).

Mt. Sanford, on which the fire was sighted, is to the right of the course the plane would have normally followed.

House Battle Shapes Up On Rent Control Bill

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — A house battle shaped up today on a plan to give local boards full power to raise rents or lift rent ceilings.

The house banking committee voted 12 to 8 late yesterday to strip federal officials of major authority over rents and transfer the decision-making power to local boards named by state governors.

After writing this provision in the senate-approved rent bill, the committee approved the measure 13 to 3. The bill would continue the modified controls until March 31, 1949.

The house will debate it Monday, with a showdown vote due Tuesday.

Ashley Senior Wins Waldorf Contest and New York Trip

Miss Arlene Marie Davis, Ashley High school senior, was voted the winner of the "Weekend at the Waldorf" contest last night at the Palace theater. With her mother, Mrs. Harold W. Davis, she will join the parade on Fifth avenue and visit spots of interest in New York City over the Easter weekend as the guest of WMRN, local radio station. Their Easter costumes will be gifts from Marion merchants.

Judges were Miss Carol Reed, assistant fashion editor for Mademoiselle magazine, Mrs. Leona Wise Felsted, dean of women at Ohio Wesleyan university, and Miss Lelia Massey, head of the home economics department at the university. Selection was based on personality, poise, appearance, scholastic standing and school activities.

Miss Davis is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold W. Davis of 408 East High street, Ashley. A blond, with brown eyes, she was wearing a black faille ballarina skirt, white long sleeved blouse and a pink scarf knotted at the neckline. The same style costume, skirt and blouse, was born by the 13 other contestants. Her first trip to New York City, Miss Davis wants to see Brooklyn, Chinatown, museums, libraries and many other places of interest during her weekend stay. When she graduates she hopes to attend Ohio Wesleyan university and major in biological research. She has one brother, Harold William Davis who celebrated his sixteenth birthday yesterday.

Selection of a winner was a difficult task, the judges stated following the close of the contest.

The judges, together with the contestants in the semi-finals, were guests of WMRN at a dinner in the Marion club at Hotel Harding preceding the contest.

The tables were colorful with arrangements of jonquils and greenery and the contestants' places were marked with gifts of fitted compact cases. They also were presented other souvenirs of the occasion. Robert T. Mason of WMRN was host. Representing the retail merchants was Paul Felder, who also spoke during the contest broadcast from the theater stage.

Acting as hostess to Miss Davis and her mother on the weekend trip will be Miss Betty Steinman, educational editor and official hostess at WMRN.

FUNERAL HELD FOR MASARYK

Benes Attends, Making First Public Appearance Since Czech Crisis Began.

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, March 13—Solemn funeral services were held today for Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, with President Eduard Benes making his first public appearance since the government crisis began Feb. 21.

Dr. Benes reached the pantheon of the national museum at 2 p. m. and a few seconds later the funeral began. From early morning trousands of persons had gathered around the national museum and parliament, and had crowded the side streets of Prague's central square. Yesterday more than 250,000 persons had filed past Masaryk's bier.

Communist Premier Klement Gottwald spoke at the funeral services. Gottwald blamed criticism from the west for the death of the Czech statesman, who died Wednesday after plunging from his office window and was officially recorded a suicide.

Gottwald Speaks

"I can prove that Jan Masaryk clearly and without compromise agreed with the action program of the new government and already started to fulfil this program within his sphere of influence," Gottwald said.

"I can prove that Masaryk, who decided to go with the people, when he stood on the crossroads of our nation's fate, meant what he said."

Hundreds of thousands of people were gathered under leaden skies for the state and military rites arranged by the Communist government. From early morning they trudged toward the national museum — clerks, shopkeepers, merchants, laborers, horny handed peasants from the country.

They bought out the flowershops for blossoms to throw at the caisson bearing Masaryk's body there from the foreign office. They piled wreaths at the bier. They snapped up memorial photographs and memorial stamps.

Have No Decency

"Look at them," said one woman in the crowd, pointing to the Communists. "They do not even have enough decency to stay at home, those hypocrites. They have come to sneer at their victims."

The Communist leader referred to Masaryk by an affectionate nickname, "Honza."

Thirty miles away at Lany, a fresh grave was dug beside the simple resting place of Masaryk's father, Thomas G. Masaryk, and first president of this republic.

The foregn press section of the ministry of information said it had asked 25 tickets for the foreign press and received only 10. An attache said "naturally we had to take care of our allies." One agency was told "the tickets are for correspondents of the Slav nations." Some visiting western journalists were told "only agencies will get tickets."

Goldberg, who comes from Steubenville, O., was admitted because he had been a personal friend of Masaryk and had known many Czech leaders during the Proposal To Shave Over Billion Off Marshall Plan Total Loses, 56-31.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—The senate raced toward final action today on the European recovery program after defeating a major drive to slash its first-year funds.

By a 56 to 31 vote late last night it blasted aside a determined effort led by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the senate Republican policy committee, to shave $1,300,000,000 off the $5,300,000,000 Marshall plan figures.

Senator Connally (D-Tex), one of the program's chief sponsors in congress, predicted its overwhelming passage by tonight. The bill is designed to speed funds to 16 western European nations to bolster them against Communism.

The senate was called to meet at noon to resume debate on the stack of amendments which still were awaiting action when it recessed at 11:03 last night.

Elated backers said the resounding defeat suffered by Taft's fund cutting proposal insured senate approval of the bill without major changes.

"We'll pass it by a bigger vote than we had against the Taft amendment," Connally told reporters.

That would be a victory for Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and chief Capitol Hill exponent of the bipartisan foreign policy.

Vandenberg stood his ground firmly as Taft led 22 other Republicans and eight Democrats in a roll call assault to batter the fund down to $4,000,000,000. The Michigan senator carried 23 other Republicans and 32 Democrats with him.

Senator Kem (R-Mo) said the plan would wreck American capitalism and wouldn't stop communism in Europe.

Taft States His Views

Taft said it was justified "by the world battle against communism," all right. But he said it was "completely without economic justification."

"We may lose every cent we put up, but it seems to me there is a chance it will aid the battle against communism," he said. "The stakes are so large that I believe we should take that chance."

But he said emphatically that "this is no war measure." He said he did not understand President Truman's statement Wednesday that his faith in peace was somewhat shaken. Taft said he does not believe there is danger of war.

He warned that the recovery program will be a "serious interference with our own economic stability."

"Too lavish distribution of American dollars will do more harm than good," he said.

The Ohioan's statement that approval of the aid bill now would not bind this country to continue it later brought on a sharp clash with Vandenberg.

Taft, Vandenberg Disagree

The bill "contemplates" four years of American aid, the Michigan senator said. While no congress can bind the next one, he added, he would feel obliged to vote for an extension next year if the 16 participating nations live up to their pledges.

"I wholly disagree," Taft shouted. There is no such obligation. There is no contract. They are not our partners. So far as I can see, they haven't agreed to do anything to our advantage except as it is to their advantage."

Vandenberg retorted that the program calls for mutual action, adding:

"Mutual cooperation so far as I am concerned is a two-way street."

COAL STRIKE THREAT IMPLIED BY LEWIS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — John L. Lewis hurled an implied threat of a soft coal strike at the government and mine owners today, then waited for something to happen.

The United Mine Workers chief declared in a letter to the union's 400,000 members that their employers in the past eight months "have dishonored the 1947 wage agreement and defaulted under its provisions affecting the welfare fund."

That contract, signed last July 8, pledged the miners to stay on the job as long as they are "able and willing." Lewis told a news conference yesterday he did not know how much longer they'll be "willing." The agreement—which runs until June 30—can be ended

"Mom" To Families of Servicemen Visits Couple at Prospect on Tour of Country

Three weeks ago, Mrs. W. Brown Smith left Wilmington, Calif., on a trip which is to take her to many states and to numerous happy reunions.

The trip has already brought the Californian to Ohio and to the home of ex-GI Merle Landon and Mrs. Landon of Prospect, who unfolded the human interest story behind the tour.

It deals with a kindhearted landlady who became so attached to her "adopted" servicemen and their families during the war, that she is now touring the country visiting each of the many families she played mother to during the days of crowded army camps.

Goes Back to War Days

The story opened during the early part of the war when Mrs. Brown and her husband leased some rental property to Army and Navy families stationed at Wilmington. They became quite fond of their "children" as they called their renters who in turn dubbed Mrs. Smith "Mom," and through the years since those with them. They all made Mrs. Smith promise she would visit them after the war.

At the USO, Mrs. Smith left instructions that she was to be sent the young couples with babies who found it so difficult to persuade landlords to take them in. Of course, not all of her renters had children, but most of them did and today Mrs. Smith proudly is building a scrapbook of her "granchildren" pictures.

Some of these "grandchildren" were born while the young mothers were staying with Mrs. Smith. These particularly have a tender spot in her heart. Perhaps she feels a mite closer to them than to the others, for young husbands went overseas with lighter hearts knowing they were leaving their babies have been born since Mrs. Smith has been on her trip.

Mrs. Smith can recall enough tender incidents of those days to fill a book. She remembers one young people, soon to be three, who came to see an apartment and she told them all she had was a trailer, whose cramped quarters would not be exactly what they wanted but added "we are fresh out of babies and would so love to have you." With a grateful smile the husband said. We'll take it even if I have to fold up like a jacknife every time I go in the trailer.

Already in Five States

Already her tour has taken her to Ohio, Texas, Arizona, Louisiana and Florida. From Georgia she will go north and east then back to California in about three months. "I'm already behind my schedule because at each place they beg me so to stay on that I lengthen my visit by at least one

BYRNES SAYS U.S. MUST ACT

Asks Revival of Wartime Draft To Back Up U. S. Protests to Soviet.

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 13—James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, said today the United States should "act," not just protest, if Russia threatens the independence of Greece, Turkey, Italy or France.

A new warning against "coercive" Soviet expansion should be served on Moscow now, he said. And to back it up, Byrnes said this country should promptly revive its wartime draft.

Byrnes stressed in a speech prepared for delivery at the Citadel Military college that he spoke as a private citizen. He said he had not consulted President Truman or Secretary of State Marshall on his address.

Joins Marshall's Appeal

He joined in Marshall's appeal for cool judgment in dealing with a "world crisis." But he added:

"It becomes the imperative duty of each one of us to insist that steps be taken immediately to prepare the United States for any eventuality. If we are going to talk strong, we must be strong."

Revival of selective service was proposed by Byrnes as a first step to restore American military might. He said it was needed promptly to bring the Army up to its authorized strength of 669,000 men, and should be coupled with increased air power.

"The very fact that congress takes such action will contribute greatly to the preservation of peace," he said. "Mr. Molotov (the Soviet foreign minister) does not understand English, but to him actions speak louder than words in any language."

Act Within Spirits of UN

Byrnes, champion of a postwar "patient but firm" policy toward Russia, said any action to curb Soviet expansion should be "within the spirit and the letter of the charter of the United Nations." But he added:

"Knowing the Soviet habit of taking over a government and then announcing there is nothing to discuss, we must let the Soviets know we will act immediately to preserve the status quo until the security council has an opportunity to investigate the threatened aggression."

SECOND OF SOLDIER FUGITIVES CAPTURED

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., March 13—With chunky, red-haired Pfc William Shildmyer, 20, in city jail here, only one of three soldiers who escaped an armed guard at Warsaw, Ky., remained at large today.

Three policemen and two detectives arrested the 240-pound Shildmyer in a downtown hotel room last night. He was armed with a .45 caliber Army revolver, but gave up sullenly without resistance.

A search for Shildmyer started here in mid-afternoon when Charles Kirkendall, 24, and Neal Plumm, 23, Miamisburg railroaders, reported to police that a soldier hitchhiker forced them to drive more than 150 miles to Toledo and then held them captives for several hours more. Shildmyer, Pvt. John R. Gfroerer, 18, of Hamilton, and Pvt. Howard S. Kent, 24, of East Liverpool, were enroute to Fort Knox, Ky., with eight other Army prisoners from Fort Hayes when they made their break at Warsaw.

Major Lee H. Kostora, Fort Hayes provost marshal, said one of the trio feigned illness; and, when the driver stopped to let him out, he and his two companions snatched service automatics and took command of the patrol car. They abandoned the vehicle at Vevay, Ind. The other prisoners refused to join in the break. Gfroerer was captured yesterday on a bridge near Woodsdale, five miles north of Hamilton. Kent is still at large.

Mrs. Swartz, who was riding in the back seat of the car when it skidded yesterday, suffered chest injuries but is reported in "fair condition." KENTON—The deer sighted in this vicinity recently may be sorry they deserted more northern climes if the unseasonal weather continues.

The reports of deer sighted in the last week were immediately followed by the heaviest snowfall of the winter and just-above-zero temperatures.

Thursday's snowfall and blizzard closed two Hardin county schools — Ridgeway and Hardin Central—for one day, and rural students of Kenton high school also had a day's vacation.

Chile Demands UN Probe Czech Coup

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, March 13—Chile's demand for United Nations investigation of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia pushed Russia today into the role of defendant before the world.

It also opened the way for an airing of conditions in at least one part of Soviet-dominated eastern Europe. Many saw the possibility of an East-West showdown.

The security council put the case on its provisional calendar for next Wednesday. The Russians then must meet headon the Chilean allegations that the methods of Nazi Germany are being used by "a member state against another member state" and that "the extent and magnitude of the plans of the U.S.S.R." stand revealed.

IN SHORT, JULIAN'S name is on paper money worth about $27,500,000,000. His office is part of the treasury department under Snyder.

Back around 1923 Julian retired from business. He was reported then to be a millionaire.

He had been a shoe salesman. Then, as a shoe manufacturer, he quit making shoes, he kept his he has.

He was also president of a trust company in Cincinnati, O., and director of other banks. When he quit making shoes, he nept his bank directorships.

Meanwhile, he was a Democrat. Rumor said he was one of the "angels" of the Democratic party in Ohio. Then President Roosevelt and the "New Deal" came along in 1933.

MR. ROOSEVELT APPOINTED Julian treasurer of the United States.But—

If he retired from business in 1923 and became treasurer in 1933, how old was he in 1933?

In 1933 friends guessed he was about 68 years old. Newspaper files don't show his age. The story of his life, but not his age, is in Who's Who in America.

Julian himself has been shy about talking of his age. One of his top assistants, asked about it, said:

"The only ones who know the answer to Mr. Julian's age are God and Mr. Julian. I should think he's in his late seventies."

But if he was 68 in 1933, he must be 83 now. Asked directly, Julian said: "I'm old enough to know better."

"Won't you tell, just for the record?"

"No. Why should I?"

Julian will get a vote for president of the United States when the Democratic delegates go to their national convention in Philadelphia in July to choose a presidential candidate.

The Ohio Democratic delegates are pledged to cast their first vote for Julian. After that they are free to vote for any one else.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THE ROCKEFELLERS have been in the oil business for some time.

But did you know they sell dogs, too?

This minor phase of the Rockefeller financial empire was discovered by a friend of ours recently whose pet Airedale had died. His wife was so unhappy that he decided to buy her another dog of the same breed to take her mind off the loss.

He called the American Kennel club, and the woman there suggested he get in touch with the kennels of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rockefeller on the family's Pocantico estate in Upper Westchester county.

Hal Boyle

Feeling somewhat like the man who went to a gasoline station to get his cigaret lighter filled, our friend drove out to the estate.

But he received a friendly welcome from Mrs. Tom Plye, the kennel master's wife, who showed him about.

"The kennel was a two-story cut-stone building of English type with oak floors in a herring-bone pattern," he said. "They had almost two dozen Airedales there, and I don't know how many Mastiffs. I didn't get to the Mastiff section."

MRS. PYLE EXPLAINED to him that the Mastiffs and Airedales were trained as watchdogs to accompany guards on their patrols around the estate, which consists of thousands of acres. Another Rockefeller kennel, the William Rockefellers in Greenwich, Conn., also has a number of Bedlington terriers for show purposes. One won "best in show" rating—highest honor in dogdom—at the recent Westminster Kennel club competition in Madison Square Garden.

The Mastiffs and Airedales are not just ordinary flatfoots. They are sent to an "obedience school" and have to graduate before they can go on patrol duty.

"We merely breed enough for replacement purposes," said Mrs. Pyle. When there is an unintentional surplus, the extras are sold.

Our friend paid $76 for a five-month-old pup, and left feeling a little sorry he hadn't got to meet the owner.

"He's a good pup but I have to fill his crankcase with oil every day," he said, adding: "Cod liver oil, I mean."

SPEAKING OF DOGS, a young man we know had a harrowing experience ferrying a Chihuahua back from Florida.

This canine midget — only slightly larger than a South Pacific mosquito — was owned by a rich lady. She wanted to send him back to New York for treatment, but couldn't stand the thought of her pet riding alone in a baggage car.

She offered to pay for a bedroom compartment and all expenses if the young man, who had planned to return here by coach, would agree to shepherd the Chihuahua. He agreed.

"It wasn't long before I began to think I'd made a dizzy deal," he said. "Did you ever sit alone, hour after hour, in a compartment on a speeding train looking into the eyes of a spoiled Chihuahua?

"EVERY FEW HOURS I had to send out for a chicken sandwich for the dog. It was on a diet, so I had to throw the bread away and feed it the slices of chicken.

"That wasn't as bad as the exercising periods. Every time the train stopped I had to walk that pennyante poodle on the platform. And do you know what kind of leash it was on? Pearls—imitation pearls. I had to march back and forth in front of everybody leading a Chihuahua on a pearl leash."

The young man is about six feet three inches tall himself.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I CHOKED and swallowed hard before I could answer Georges astonishing words, and I was divided between the impulse to shriek with uncontrollable laughter, or to "give him the back of my hand" in a well-aimed swipe at his handsome face

But sanity finally triumphed and I controlled my voice to icy incredulity

"Your duty to Mary?" I echoed. "Surely, I cannot have heard you aright. What possible duty can you have toward Mary except to leave her alone, and stop pestering her with your attentions?"

"I am not aware that I have troubled her with any attentions on this trip" he said haughtily "From the moment I reached here I have made Olina my first concern I have written her—"

"Yes, yes I am aware of that" I said a bit impatiently In that connection, may I ask you how many letters—notes, rather—you sent her from overseas?"

His insolent eyes quickly veiled, told me that I had no business to ask the question And his reply was hesitant

"Several," he said "I really can't remember"

"Then I can refresh your memory" I told him "Olina valued them very highly, and grieved because you were in such danger as you said that you could send only two notes to her"

He shot a keen and displeased look at me Evidently the words "as you said" had stung him as I meant them to do

"Do you doubt that I was in danger?" he asked

"Not in the least," I answered

"Your tone and words certainly implied a doubt," he countered

"A doubt only of the time you could devote to writing, I said

"What do you mean by that?" he asked, as I paused

"Only this Georges," I told him sternly. "You wrote only two notes to Olina, but you sent three quite lengthy letters to Mary at the sanitarium, and then when you arrived here, you pretended that you never had heard of Mary's illness, or of her presence at the sanitarium"

At long last, I had the pleasure of seeing Georges completely "flabbergasted," as Mrs Ticer would have dubbed him He stared at me with his mouth open and his face was mottled with red

When at last he found speech, his voice was raucous

"What warrant have you for saying that?" he demanded, his eagerness evidently not yet suspecting the truth

"The only possible warrant" I said "Mary, herself, told me"

His eyes goggled at me again

"Mary—told you" he stuttered "Mary betrayed anything as sacred as those letters were I cannot believe it I will not believe it"

"Are you by any chance calling me a liar Georges?" I asked, my voice stern, but my risibles threatening to go A W O L on me

That jolted him, and he looked at me in alarm

"No, no I did not mean that," he said "Of course if you say she told you, she did But the poor girl must have gone completely out of her mind to reveal anything so sacred to both of us"

I was "seeing red" by this time, and my voice was icy with cold wrath

"Will you kindly tell me Georges, why Mary should consider letters from you, the fiance of another woman, letters unsolicited by her and unwelcome to her as 'sacred'"

I hoped the last word was dripping with the scorn I felt but Georges was unperturbed

"Because" he said "Mary now feels for me what I once felt for her, and because of that, I feel it my duty to give up all [illegible] Mary shall [illegible] the cruel [illegible] [illegible]"

War Always Has Been Possible

WAR with Russia is a possibility. The question is whether or not it has become immediate probability—something that might happen any time.

The answer must be guessed at by the United States. The guessing must be intelligent and realistic. It will be this country's main reliance in the war of nerves which the Kremlin is waging.

The United States resolved after Pearl Harbor never to underestimate again the possibility of war. The popular mood at present is one of wanting to be aware of the worst that might happen.

The new mood, however, also has its dangers.

The possibility of war always has existed; it always will. But the probability of war must be estimated in relation to immediate circumstances.

If war with Russia is only possible, not immediately probable, decisions now being made in Washington can be made one way. But if war is immediately probable, they must be made another way. Tax revision, tariff agreements, European aid, economy, military training and even election strategy are affected.

It would be silly to ignore the things that raise the threat of war. But it would be just as silly to overestimate them.

The security of the United States calls for a sound domestic economy, for balance of thought and action, for political reorganization to restore popular faith in the federal government's ability to handle a crisis. The country cannot stand another "khaki election" like the one in 1944 that gave an incumbent administration a mandate it was too weak to fulfill. It cannot stand any avoidable war hysteria.

The Russian dictatorship has the potential power to unnerve the United States in the handling of its own internal security if the American people lose their perspective. The Kremlin alone knows whether or not there will be war, because only the Kremlin can make the decision to strike a first blow. It has that powerful advantage in a war of nerves.

But the United States also has powerful advantages which are not underestimated by the Russian dictatorship. They shouldn't be underestimated by the American people.

This country has overwhelming actual production and still greater potential production. This production was not damaged by World War II; it was increased.

The United States has tremendous stores of actual war equipment. It has a well informed and alert population. If to these can be added a strong determination to maintain national security free from hysteria, the possibility of war with Russia can be kept in perspective.

It's a possibility. It is not yet a probability.

Mr. Truman's Third Chance

THE senate finance committee's 10-to-1 approval of an income tax reduction bill makes it certain that President Truman will have his third chance to agree to a cut in wartime tax rates.

He muffed his second chance last July when he vetoed the revised version of a tax-reduction bill he had vetoed the preceding month. His first veto had been sustained in the house of representatives by only two votes—268 for repassing the bill over his veto, 137 for upholding the veto. His second veto was upheld in the senate by only five votes—57 for repassing the bill, 36 for upholding the veto. A two-thirds majority is needed to override a presidential veto.

Mr. Truman thwarted the will of an overwhelming majority in both houses of congress twice last year on this issue, the first time any chief executive ever used the veto power to kill a tax measure. It was an unprecedented demonstration of executive arrogance in a field where no president of the United States ever had trespassed before.

Congress now is making its third attempt to taper off wartime tax rates. Again it is working on the assumption that a presidential veto will be used to set aside the decision of overwhelming majorities in both legislative branches. But this time the house has passed a tax-reduction bill by 297 to 120—more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto. The senate likewise hopes to muster better than a two-thirds majority.

The main issue of the tax-reduction bill isn't the amount of reduction, which will be settled finally by a compromise. It is whether or not a chief executive of the United States should be permitted to abuse his authority by setting his personal judgment against the collective judgment of the representatives of the people and the 48 states.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Grand Jury Probes Communism but Little Happens.

A SPECIAL federal grand jury has been in continuous session in New York to investigate a situation that has been known for many years and therefore is not a grand jury secret. What is both inexplicable and astonishing is that any government would knowingly permit the agents of a foreign nation—whether friendly or enemy—to organize to obtain important, even crucial posts in its administration with the object of subordinating the interests of their country to the policy of another. What is even more surprising is that after all the names and facts become known and were corroborated from at least three sources, the FBI, the Dies committee and the Canadian government, these men continued in high office in the administration, that at least one of them was an under-secretary, that one was in the president's office, that one holds an outstanding position in public affairs, apparently, anybody can take over the American government who tries.

SOKOLSKY

As a result of the Canadian investigation, Prime Minister MacKenzie King is reported to have regarded the American participation in the universal plot as so important that he personally came to Washington to deliver the documents to President Truman.

Sometime in 1913 Harold Ware organized a Communist cell in Washington with the object of placing Communist men and women in critical positions in the federal government. The names of the original members of the central cell are well known and their careers can be followed in detail from the beginning. Some of them moved very far upward in the administration. They pushed each other upward.

Each Forms Own Cell

Each member of the central cell was required to organize a cell of his own and this process was followed until a large number of cells were organized. It was thus possible for a G.P.U. agent, operating from the central cell, to obtain confidential files, to note the plans of government, and to smear their opponents, even by congressional investigations and income tax procedures.

Certain agencies of government were particularly designated as worthy of control. Among the foremost were the AAA, the department of labor, the immigration bureau, then in the department of labor, the income tax division of the department of justice, the treasury and the La Follette committee. Many of them, of course, were in other branches of government. It so worked out that if one of them was fired from one branch, he was quickly given another job.

After the breach of the Stalin-Hitler alliance, many of these men and women came into the open, because this country was allied to Soviet Russia. They became important in the OWI, the OSS, the state department and the treasury. They developed tremendous power and actually played an important role in the orientation courses in the Army. Subsequent to the war, they were most influential in the occupation in Germany and in the state department.

Russian Directed Effort

This in summary is the story of a Russian-directed effort to control the American government from 1934 to 1948. Although grand jury proceedings are strictly secret, it has become known that this is what the special grand jury in New York has been investigating since last June. At various times, either indictments or a presentment have been expected, but thus far little more has happened than that a few aliens have been picked up for deportation.

Leaks, not from the grand jury but from other sources, have indicated a struggle between the FBI and the White House over this grand jury investigation with the department of justice greatly embarrassed. The FBI apparently wishes the entire story told by the grand jury with adequate indictments of traitors; the politicians in the White House fear the political consequences because some extraordinarily important names are involved. Thus, the investigation drags on and the traitors continue to do their work.

Public opinion ought to assert itself in this matter. It is contempt of court to disclose grand jury proceedings; it is libel to charge men and women with unproven crimes. Thus the traitors are protected by the laws they despise and the government they seek to seize. Nevertheless, national interest is in peril and public opinion should ask what this grand jury has been doing since June.

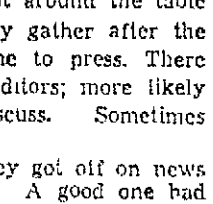
Old Camera Man

By Frank Tripp

THE boys sat around the table where they gather after the paper has gone to press. There they discuss editors; more likely cuss than discuss. Sometimes I'm welcome.

This day they got off on news photographers. A good one had just gone haywire on an easy trick. His alibi was a frozen shutter, but it could have been a frozen daiquiri.



TRIPP

"Did you birds ever hear about Joe Turner's wonderful beach scene?" asked Al Peat, the political reporter. Some had, some hadn't.

Joe was one of the most resourceful old-timers who ever carried a black box around Upstate New York. Also he was occasionally in about the most trouble.

Al went on to explain, while Gus filled 'em all around again; this time on the house. Al turned to me and said, "now don't put this in that screwy column of yours"—so I will.

The story, without overall quotes — but it's Al speaking all the time — goes like this:

After a long, hard Winter the calendar said that Summer had come to Ontario's shores. The bathing beaches were open but the weather had been bad, till one day a promising weekend was forecast.

"Get a shot of a bathing beach if there's anybody in the water," Pop Darrin, the Simon Legree of the news desk, said to Joe. Maybe Joe didn't take the assignment too seriously because it was delivered without the threats and oaths which usually were the enacting clauses of Pop's orders.

Anyway Joe got himself otherwise engaged on Saturday night and the engagement extended so late on Sunday, before he got even, that he didn't get to see any beaches.

* * *

Joe dug through his old negatives, but not a one of a bathing beach was to be found. He called a pal on a competing paper and make known his plight. The pal had one, which Joe cropped and printed in several different styles.

"Don't tell me there were that many people in the water," challenged Pop. "Why you lousy baboon it was cold enough to freeze the tail off a brass monkey." Only baboon and lousy are my own words.

"Honest, Pop, well you can see for yourself, there they are," insisted Joe. Pop ran the picture five columns wide and picked the one that was cropped to show scores of recognizable faces.

The next day a weazened little man entered the office with the beach picture in his hand. Unhappily he accosted Pop.

"Could I get a good picture of this, or maybe the film? I'd be glad to pay for it," he said. "What you want of it?" Pop asked.

The man pointed to the picture. "That man right there is my brother," he said. "He's been dead two years."

* * *

I says, now I'll tell one. Sailing out of Dairen on a Japanese ship I determined to steal a shot of restricted Port Arthur, which the Japs had screened from photographers with all but an iron curtain. I used every precaution, locked my cabin door, stood way back and shot through a port hole with a Leica 135 mm lens. Got six dandies, I knew.

There was a Jap news photographer on the boat; a good one, but he spoke no English. I taught him to say "old camera man," which we called each other.

A couple of nights later in the middle of the Japan Sea, the Jap switched from sake to Scotch, which Japs can't safely do. It happened to him — and how. He wilted like a daisy.

* * *

If you want to befriend a Jap—and this was before the war—you contrive to save his face with his countrymen. I took the Jap to my cabin and poured him into bed.

Of dozens of magazines that I brought back, all averaged good except one. That, intact and looking like all the rest, was completely fogged—all 36 exposures. It was the one on which I shot Port Arthur.

So, my "old camera man" was a Jap spy. I know how he did it, for that magazine was still in my camera the night he "passed out." But I have never figured out how he knew that I took the pictures.

Honeymoon Coupe Is Durable

By The Associated Press

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — James L. Johnston has driven his "honeymoon coupe" 300,000 miles without so much as denting a fender.

It was back in 1930 that Johnston bought a new automobile to take his honeymoon. Still in service, the auto is used by Johnston daily as he commutes to work. He has replaced the car's motor twice but the 18-year-old vehicle's body still has a brilliant polish.

Johnston's recipe for safe driving:

"Just use your head and exercise ordinary care, caution and common sense."

British Gas Program

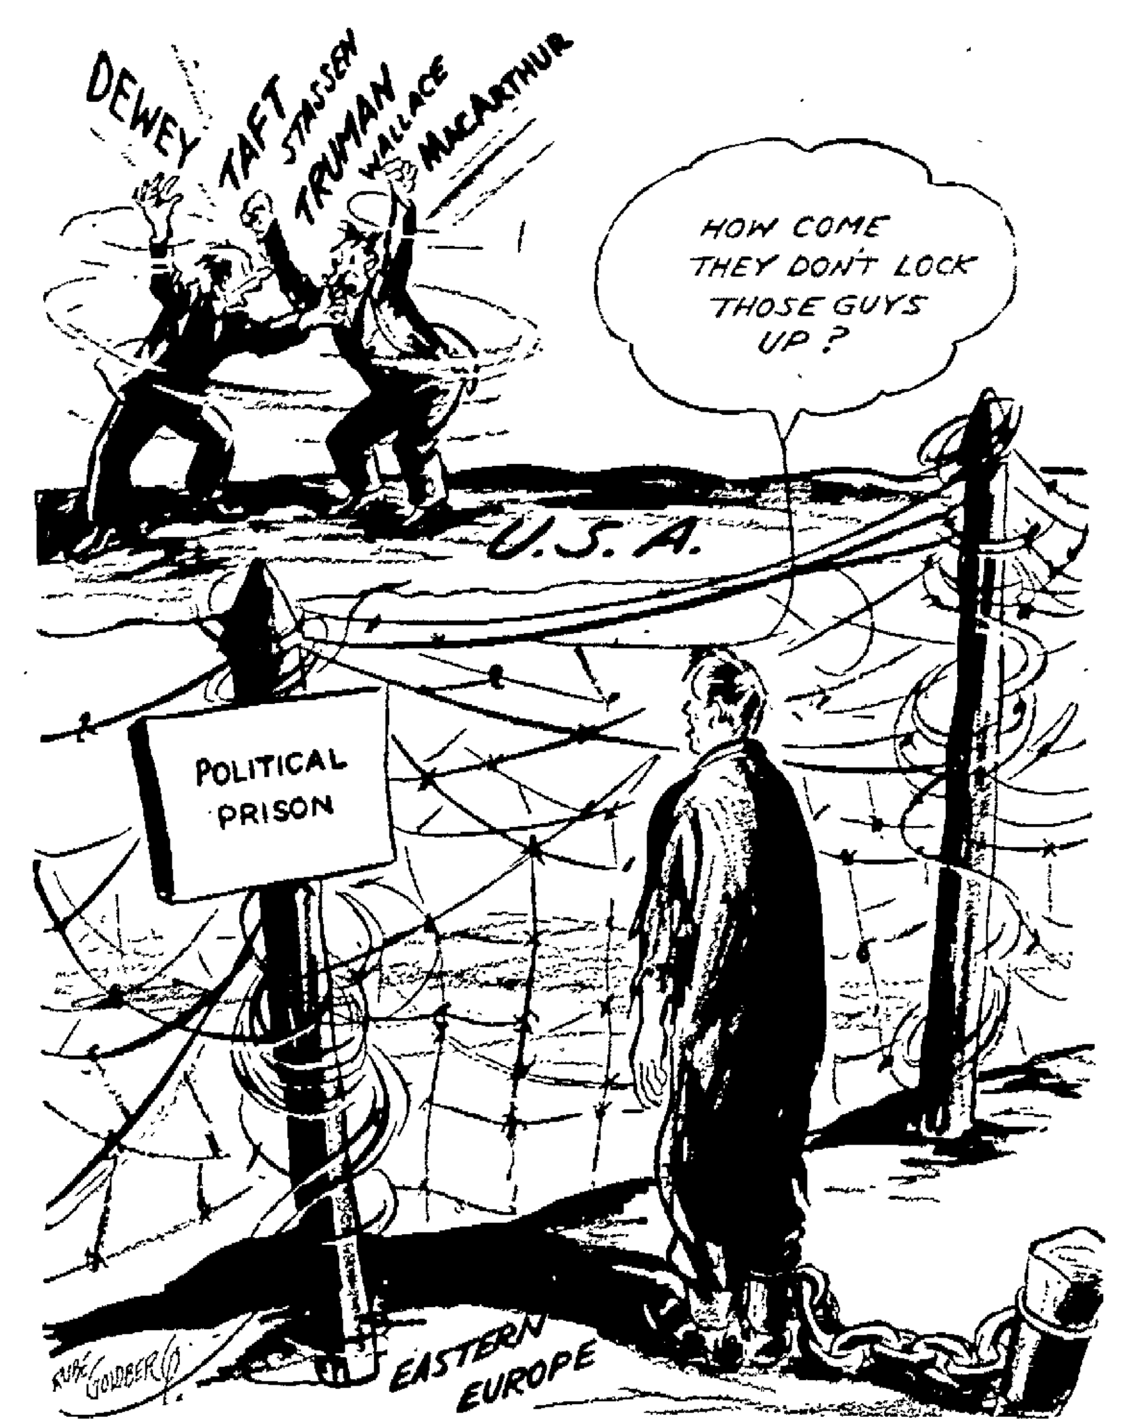
By The Associated Press

LONDON — Five out of every six persons in Britain may be affected by the Labor government's proposed gas nationalization bill introduced in commons as the final step in a program for state ownership of the fuel and power industry.

Many homes use gas for heating as well as cooking and the British Gas Council estimates some 39,000,000 Britons are served in one way or the other.

The measure proposes establishment of twelve area boards to provide "an efficient, co-ordinated and economical system of gas supply."

What Makes America Different



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, March 13, 1938.

Clarence Darrow, who rose from a $30 a month country school teacher to the nation's most famous "attorney for the defense." died of a heart ailment at his home in Chicago.

A bolt of lightning which struck telephone wires at Nevada, crippled a score of lines of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., disabled telephone service for about 100 persons and caused damage which took hours to repair.

Officers, headed by Miss Ione Srieves, were installed in formal exercises conducted by Beta Gamma chapter, Lambda Chi Omego sorority at Hotel Harding.

Alva D. Rogers, 67, lifelong resident of Tully township, died of a heart ailment at his home near Martel.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Peters of Dayton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Nippert of Brightwood drive. Miss Ann Mereness of Brightwood drive, who had been visiting at the Peters home, returned home with them.

Members whose perfect attendance records ranged from twenty to two years were given special recognition at Calvary Evangelical Sunday school. Mrs. Ben Miley of Brush Ridge held the highest record, an attendance of every Sunday except one for 20 years. Miss Stella Keeler of Summitt street had a record of 13½ years. The youngest record holder was Margaret Zachman, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Zachman of Hane avenue, who had attended every Sunday for the last two years.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, March 13, 1928.

Charging that the commerce department was honeycombed with politics, Representative Brand, Republican of Ohio, demanded on the floor of the house that President Collidge call for the resignation of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Harding High school was to be represented in the Marion district finals of the International Oratorical contest by Miss Genevieve Stowe, member of the National Honor society.

Miss Sophia Mack was elected president of the Business Woman's club. Miss Edna Dutton was elected vice president. Miss Florence Oberlander, recording secretary, Miss Irene Reynolds, corresponding secretary and Miss Margaret Porter, treasuerr.

The Big Four railroad announced plans to run excursion trains to Cleveland every other Sunday during the baseball season, starting March 18. Excursions to Niagara Falls were announced for July and August. The Erie railroad announced plans for 16-day excursions to New York City June 21 through July 26 and Aug. 23.

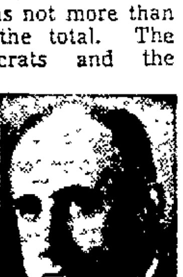
An unidentified pedestrian narrowly escaped a shower of loose bricks when a section of the coping at the northwest corner of the Grand theater block let go and crashed to the sidewalk during a heavy rain.

Favorable Signs in Italy

By Raymond Moley

IT IS certainly a sign of changed times when the votes of lazzaroni in Sicily become a topic of importance at American breakfast tables. Our rate hardly depends upon these votes, but the election in Italy next April is a factor in our foreign affairs.

It is true that Communists in 1946 cast an Italian vote of about 4,200,000. This was not more than 20 per cent of the total. The Christian Democrats and the Right cast more votes than the Communists and Socialists combined. Since then, a large group of Socialists have completely broken with the Communists and are represented in the government. The police system, which in Prague was under Communist control, is in Italy strong and in government hands.



MOLEY

Realizing their political weakness, the Italian Communists have tried to create a sub-state. There are Communist committees in factories, in rural areas and in cities. This organization is not strong. Whenever there are demonstrations the police appear, and when strikes are called the ranks of Communists shrink in numbers. None of the important factors which contributed to the Communist putsch in Prague are present in Italy.

Some Favorable Signs

There are several reasons why the picture is hopeful.

First, the economic situation has greatly improved. Italy is small but productive. It recovers rapidly. Visitors from northern Italy report normal conditions there. The UNRRA gravy train with Fiorello La Guardia at the throttle did well by Italy. Italian-born Americans have sent many dollars to relatives in the homeland.

Moreover, Italy has been the white-haired boy among ex-enemies. Its political integrity has been more quickly re-established. It had the advantage of getting out of the war first. Italians are so confident in the generosity of the Allies that they are asking a hand in deciding Germany's fate. They eagerly await the benefits of ERP.

There is, in addition, the enormously important factor of geography. The Western Powers rule the Mediterranean, and Italy is well protected by water. Only a narrow border looks to Communist Yugoslavia and that is insulated by hatred. Italy despises the Balkans. It has not forgotten the loss of Istria. And no one who defends Tito will be safe in Italy.

Finances Well Managed

Finally, this Italian government has pursued a wise financial policy. It took the lead in devaluation, and that act has stimulated business and restricted the black market.

The prospects for good news next month are favorable. Italy is one of our lesser worries.

Curfew Again

Curfew shall start ringing again at night. That is the trend of a growing number of cities seeking to reduce after-dark juvenile delinquency, the American Municipal Association reports.

More than 3,000 United States communities at some time have adopted curfew laws to keep their juveniles off the streets after dark. However, most of these ordinances are enforced only periodically.

Chicago recently dusted off its 25-year-old curfew law requiring generally that persons under 18 be inside by 10 p. m. Penalties for parents range up to arrest and $100 fines. Revision of the ordinance to lower the age limit to 16 is being considered.

Evanston, Ill., also is starting a new curfew enforcement drive affecting children under 16.

Minneapolis police officials started active enforcement of curfew laws in 1945. They say it has reduced juvenile delinquency.

Cleveland officials have been working on a new dusk-to-dawn curfew law. For the time being at least, schools have discontinued night recreation programs, to conform to the law.

Curfew enforcement programs also have been adopted recently at New Weston, Ore., Cudahy, Wis., and Fairmont, Minn.

Some curfew laws set different age limits for boys and girls. Others merely forbid loitering, rather than excluding juveniles from the streets.

Letters for Special Delivery

DR. EDWARD U. CONDON,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Doctor. I am all for your contention that there is too much smearing going on in Ame and that no charges against anybody shoul made without evidence. I can savvy your re ment. But there are a couple of paragrap your letter to Senator Hickenlooper, the of which eludes me. These are:

1.—"There has been a mounting tension to threats, purges, spy rings, exposures, pub attacks and public dismissals. All these m scientists increasingly reluctant to work for the government."

2.—"I would hope that the investigation by your committee would result in restoring conditions under which men of intelligence will be able to work for the government," etc.

PHILLIPS

* * *

What goes here, doctor? This strikes me as a little smug. Why should scientists be any more reluctant to work for Uncle Sam in a day of peril any more than butchers, bakers or candlestick makers just because here and there a butcher, baker or candlestick maker cross-questioned? And isn't this "men of intelligence" stuff rather "upseedaisy?"

Plumbers, businessmen, flagpole sitters, bricklayers, delicatessen men, lawyers, doctors, writers, dishwashers, plasterers, school teachers and egg candlers are expected to go right answering any call their country sounds to them on issues far less vital than the matter atomic warfare, even when the "tension" annoying. A lot of GI's being called to disagreeable work all over the map have to go on answering the bugle at 5:30, showing no reluctance when a GI here and there is put on the g No top sarge says, "Before I ask you to do KP are you a man of intelligence?"

* * *

Is duty a matter of high education? Is obligation to help protect Uncle Sam a matter of smartness? Is it all a matter of education levels and college decrees and the laboratory mood?

* * *

Gee, I hope not, Dr. Condon, and I wish you hadn't put in that "men of intelligence" angle on account of dumb, smart and medium makes no difference in patriotism, and I am sure you were just unfortunate in the choice of words. I refuse to believe that the scientists of America are so touchy, sensitive and easily bruised.

* * *

I guess you have a right to feel sore and I think an inquiry will show you are strictly O. K., but not just because you are a man of intelligence and scientifically a select dish. All good wishes.

ELMER.

Grass Lake News

By TRUMAN TWILL

IN A PLACE called Grass Lake, Mich., women have made a clean sweep of all public offices. Going into a recent election with 7 of 10 jobs already tied up, they knocked out the three remaining men and took complete charge.

There were some little things about the triumph that might grow up into big things. The reelected president of the village, Miss Helen McCall, said her cohorts scored at the polls because they let the men do all the talking. "They promised to reduce taxes and pave the streets," she explained. "Apparently the two didn't go together." She pointed out—a mark this well—that men always promise a lot before election and don't accomplish much afterward, but with women it's the other way around.

The thing worth noting here is that ordinary women who have displaced the city fathers of Grass Lake. Not the widows of politicians, or bejeweled biddies making a lark of politics but plain ordinary working gals and smalltown housewives. And the thing worth thinking about is that the American people in their quest for better government have tried everything except the talents of women.

Men have had a political monopoly for umpteen thousand years, with only a few notable exceptions, such as the mythical Amazons, who had no distinction besides being built like five-ton trucks and liking to fight. While men haven't failed in all cases to rig up fairly decent and reasonably workable governments, they're about as well known for their failures as for their triumphs.

The real geniuses of organized effort—the females who make ends meet on the old man's wages, the gal secretaries who run the lives of male executives, the widows who make the mites stretch into a livelihood and the millions of women everywhere who organize everything from housework to foreign missions and make a go of it are expected to take a back seat and stand outside in the cold while men make big decisions about government.

Then if the men make a mess of things, the women are supposed to cluck-cluck with sympathy and tell the dear, dear boys it doesn't really matter, they still love 'em for their weakness; here are your pipe and slippers, we forgive you. Oh yes, and how should they mark the ballots because men know all about such things and women are dopes—and who's been kidding whom?

Maybe the girls at Grass Lake have the answer. If they don't, at least they're no worse than the men, who couldn't even muster a majority at the polls and now have a choice between occupying a back seat or standing outside in the cold where their wives used to be.

CHRIST in You, THE HOPE of Glory

SALVATION COMES HIGH

John 12:24. "Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die it abideth by itself alone, but if it die it beareth much fruit."

INSTITUTIONAL religion has always tended to substitute its own standard in place of the demands of the Kingdom of God. For example, if a person attends church, supports its budget, conforms to its patterns of behavior, observes its forms and rituals, the sunshine of the church's approval falls upon him and he has the outward assurance at least that all is well.

Jesus, however, laid no such innocuous demands upon His disciples. The kind of a life which would become a germinating center of redemption, as He saw it, was the kind which utterly gave itself to God. The parable of the grain of wheat is disturbing to our modern sophisticated congregations. The mood of utter surrender, of submersing oneself, one's desires, to the work of God cuts across the modern outlook. Our modern mood in the church is to add religion to all the rest that we have. The mood of the New Testament is that it shall dominate all our lives. Only as God has all, only as we subdue our selfishness and give the new life a chance within can we become radiating centers of the new life. Salvation for individuals or the world comes high.

DR. EDWIN A. BROWN,
Wesley Methodist Church.

Memories

A Sermonette

By REV. ELLIS G. GUTHRIE

Pastor of First Church of the Brethren.

* * *

IN the first verse of the twelfth chapter of Ecclesiastes these words are written. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them; . . ." These words suggest the title above—Memories.

It would be better for the future men and women of the world if they would realize that their actions as boys and girls influence more than they realize their lives as men and women. Man can never get away from his memories. Good memories act as a foundation and as an anchor to individual lives. A man who had traveled far up the ladder of the business world found that the foundation on which he stood was shaky. As time passed it seemed to him that all that he had worked for would be lost. As he wondered frantically what was to be done he remembered the old home place and his mother who still lived there. He also remembered his boyhood prayers at his mother's feet. One day he left his work and paid an overdue visit to his mother. He told her that he wanted to again experience the worship experience that was his in his childhood. That night he slept better than he had in months. He had in a real way experienced the presence of God. This brought him peace and such a feeling of power that he was able to go back to his work the following day and to overcome the obstacles that had bothered him for months. How truly the book of Proverbs says: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart thereof." Good memories help to make the man.

Bad memories lead to instability and futility. The person who has had childhood memories is more likely to spend part of his life in prison or in a mental hospital. But these memories need not be made in childhood to have a disastrous affect. I visited an institution for the insane one time and among the terrible sights that I saw there the one that I am going to relate was one of the worst. There was one man there who all day long would go through the motions of shooting a man with a revolver and each time he went through these motions the word "bang" would issue forth from his lips. I learned later that he had shot a man and the memory of that deed had driven him into insanity. Yes, evil memories do much to undermine the sanity and moral fibre of an individual.

An important thing to remember about our memories is that not only have we made them in the past but we are making them today and shall continue to make them tomorrow. These memories will affect our lives just as surely as those that have already been made.

It is true that some memories are lost to the conscious mind. But those that are evil will still affect the one who seemingly has forgotten them. This has been brought out very plainly by psychoanalysis. However, whether our memories are lost or retained they still affect our minds.

Yes, we should all remember the Creator. As it is written in Genesis 1:27: . . . God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them." No one can remember his creation but we need to accept by faith that God created each one of us. We should, therefore, serve Him with all the vigor that we possess.

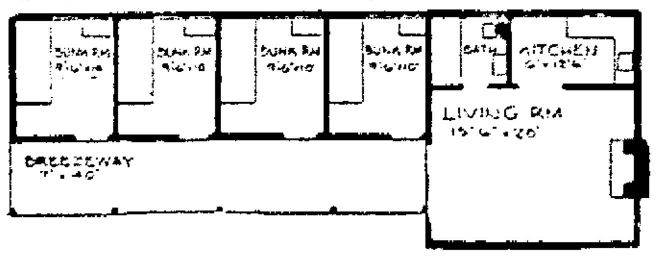
YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Practical House Plan for Large Family

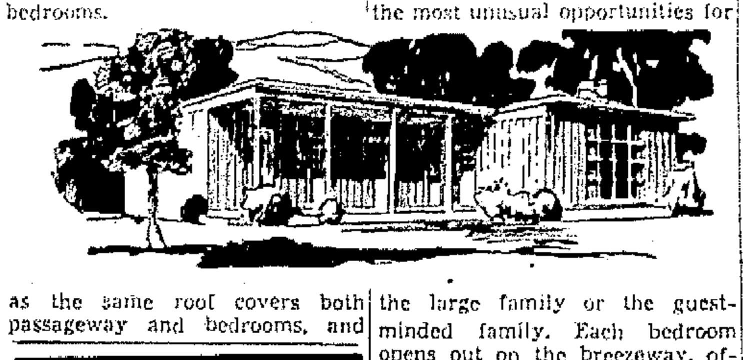
Occasionally, a very unique idea in a house or a home appears; and the one-story, four-bedroom plan shown here is one of the most interesting, practical, and economical layouts we have seen in quite a few years. The design covers a central area which houses the conventional living room, bathroom and kitchen; and which provides for a long covered breezeway or passage-way across the front of the structure, giving access to a series of four, six, eight, or more small individual bedrooms.



The economy is quite obvious as the same roof covers both passageway and bedrooms, and the same pitch of roof may be followed right through the entire structure. The very lightest type of partition work is practical as the roof structure is light and there is no long span of joist or rafter to complicate the building procedure.

The bedrooms may be fitted with built-in bunks and wardrobes, corner seats and dressing tables, and may be as ornate or as plain and ranch-like as the owner sees fit.

Aside from the economical building angle, this plan offers the most unusual opportunities for the large family or the guest-minded family. Each bedroom opens out on the breezeway, offering immediate outdoor atmosphere or immediate access to the living room and bathroom without disturbing any of the other occupants of the house. As a further development of the plan, one of the bedrooms may be converted into another bathroom, or the row of bedrooms may be refitted to provide a series of suites of bedroom and bath; all according to the owner's wishes.



To make provision for cold weather, the open breezeway may be glassed in with standard sash fastened with buttons, and easily removable; and a single heating coil run through the rooms at baseboard level from a central heating plant.

As compared to a two-story house, or the conventional type of one-story home, where privacy is at a premium; this plan has much to offer, as each bedroom is an independent unit and practically out of the household.

From the standpoint of correct locating; this house may be faced in any direction with equally good results. From the standpoint of housekeeping effort, it should be as easy to maintain as a barracks; and if plainly and soundly built in the beginning, the upkeep should be extremely low.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Frost on Walls

Q. My house, four rooms and bath on one floor, is heated by a circulating oil burning heater, centrally located. Walls are plastered, exterior has been shingled over siding with tar paper between siding and shingles. Frost collects on the plaster of the outside walls of the clothes closets and kitchen cupboard, if anything is placed against or close to these walls. We have an unheated rear entry that is finished on the inside with plywood. Frost collects on this wall even though nothing is placed near it. Is it possible to correct this condition?

A. Although you do not mention a basement, I am suspicious that it is unfinished—that is, there is only a dirt floor in the cellar space. This would explain much of the dampness in the house. If my guess is right, you either should lay a good basement floor or else insulate the underside of the first floor. Unvented heaters should be connected to a vent to carry off the vapors of combustion. The walls of the closets frost because they are chilled, probably due to the thinness of the walls and the moisture in the house air. Insulation nailed on furring strips would protect the walls from cold and frost. If the furring strips would take up too much space, it also would help somewhat to omit them, and put the insulation directly against the walls. A low-watt electric bulb in the clothes closets would dry up much of the dampness. Set it on a stand, being careful not to let it touch anything that would burn. The rear entry also could be insulated and more heat provided, if possible to arrange for it.

Rusty Hot Water

Q. My hot-water tank is not a year old and I have rusty water coming out of my hot-water faucets. The cold water is OK. Can you give me any suggestions on the subject?

A. One reason may be that you are heating the water too much. A temperature of 130 to 140 degrees is hot enough for domestic hot water. When water is heated more than that, sediment is stirred up that is carried along in the water supply. You could prevent overheating the water by installing an automatic control. Also, your water supply may contain a great deal of sediment, which could be controlled by a water filter.

Cleaning Tile Cement

Q. How can I clean the cement between the squares of tile?

A. Try scrubbing with a scratchless scouring power, using a stiff brush. Then rinse with a strong solution of Javelle water. This should be well rinsed off afterward. If this fails to clean the tile, you can have a tile-setter replace the darkened cement with new. If no one is available, rake out the old cement and fill the joints with a white portland cement mixed with water to make a thick, creamy paste. Wipe off cement smears at once before they set hard on the tile surfaces.

Boiler Water Level

Q. What water level should be maintained in a steam boiler, heated by gas, for maximum economy and efficiency?

A. Many boiler manufacturers mark their boilers to suggest the level at which boiler water should be maintained. If there is no mark, it is best to keep the glass tube on the boiler half filled with water.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

A forward-looking house, with five rooms on the first floor and space for two large bedrooms and extra bath on the second floor, this dwelling was designed by the architectural firm of McMurray and Chirgotis of Union, N. J. This plan affords complete separation of living, sleeping and work areas. It is identified as Plan 701MC. The center hall arrangement minimizes living room traffic while circulation is convenient from kitchen to dining room and through to a porch which offers outdoor dining space. Both living and dining rooms feature large picture windows. The house covers an area of 1,200 square feet and contains 27,100 cubic feet, which figures may be used as a guide for local construction estimates, the architects suggest that specifications include gas-fired air-conditioned heat, slate roof, insulation of both side walls and roof, hardwood floors throughout.

Backache Diagnosis Easier Now

When it comes to backache, doctors are on more sure ground today than ever before. There are so many possible causes of pain in this region that in the past physicians have often had trouble in discovering the one responsible in any particular case.

However, during the past few years, it has been discovered that most recurrent attacks of backache and many cases of long-continued backache are due to conditions affecting the intervertebral disks. Hence, today, when the doctor is confronted with a case of backache, the cause of which is not clear, he will first investigate this possibilty. The intervertebral disks are little rounds of cartilage which join the bones of the spine together and act as a sort of cushion for them.

The most common type of pain in the lower part of the back associated with injury to these disks is lumbago. In this condition there is sudden onset of pain, with tenderness over the muscle. The attack may last for a few hours or for several days.

Not only is there pain, but some limitation of the movement of the back, particularly in forward bending. As a rule, the patient may bend sidewise without pain. Between attacks, the back may be normal. The patient often feels all right when he is lying down, but has a return of the pain on exercising, sitting, or standing.

An X-ray examination usually will reveal the presence of the injured disk. The treatment may require operation, although milder cases may be relieved by rest and the wearing of a supporting belt or truss.

Persistent backache also may follow an injury to the bones or muscles of the back. However, these injuries are not frequent causes for long-continued back pain.

Some cases of backache may be due to poor posture. However, the postural difficulty must be of a severe type before it causes severe backache. If poor posture is the cause, the pain is relieved when the patient lies down.

Backache often occurs during pregnancy, and in these cases it is probably the result of postural strain. Backache following pregnancy usually clears up. If it persists, it may be due to injury to some of the intervertebral disks. An X-ray should be taken in order to be sure.

Inflammation of the fibrous or connecting tissues of the back may be an occasional cause of back pain, but, in such instances, the condition does not persist as it does with injuries to the disks.

If a disk injury is present and the wearing of a supporting belt and the use of heat and massage do not give lasting relief, the advisability of operation should be considered. In this operation, the disk is removed or replaced in the proper position. Sometimes it may be necessary to fasten some of the bones of the spine together. In a group of patients studied and operated on, 80 per cent were completely relieved of their difficulty. Of the remainder, more than half were improved, but not cured.

Questions and Answers

H. D.: Are kidney trouble and a weak heart the only two things that cause the feet and ankles to swell?

Answer: In addition to the causes you have mentioned, swelling of the ankles may be produced by a local disturbance of the circulaion in the feet or ankles, or possibly by some inflammation of the ankle joints, such as that due to arthritis or an injury.

Wind erosion is produced by strong winds blowing the soil particles across the land surface just as snow is blown in a storm.

CHARGES DECISION RAPS "LITTLE MAN"

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, March 12—J. Earl Miller of Geneva, president of the Ohio State Association of Real Estate Boards, today attacked the state supreme court decision classifying non-convertible machinery and equipment as personal rather than real property.

Miller said the decision was "definitely discriminatory" and would "make the little man . . . carry the load for those who have a greater financial ability."

The real estate boards president added:

"I have no quarrel with business, either large or small, and I realize that they have a tax problem. However, I dislike to see an added tax burden placed on the individual home and property owners as this decision is bound to do in many Ohio communities."

The high court ruled in the now famous Roseville Pottery case that equipment and machinery not readily usable for other than its original purpose is taxable as personal rather than real property.

Real property is taxable at 100 per cent of value and personal property at 50 per cent.

The ruling has been widely attacked by city, county and school officials and others, who maintain it will damage the state's entire tax structure.

56 GRANGE CANDIDATES INITIATED AT MEETING

The work was conferred by Grand Prairie grange staff headed by Richard Lucas and Salt Rock team members captained by Clyde Ferry. The meeting was in charge of officers of Progressive grange.

Short talks were given by Ralph Hurr, master of United grange, Robert Uncapher of Mt. Olive grange, Kenneth Pangborn of Martel, Ernest Klingel of Whetstone, William Knowles of Kirkpatrick, Loren Starner of Salt Rock and Carl Fogle of Bethlehem. Elmer A. Williams, county deputy, scored the work. A capacity attendance witnessed the conferring of the degrees.

In Loving Memory

★Of our dear husband and father, who passed away just five years ago today, March 13, 1943.

I have lost a dear companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.

The one I love has gone to rest,
His firm, true heart is still,
The hand that always gave me help
Now lies in death's cold chill.

His life was a life of service,
So patient, humble and kind,
His thoughts were always of others,
And self was left behind.

It's so lonesome here without you,
"Dear Daddy,"
I miss you more each day,
Life just doesn't seem worth while
Since you went away.

Baer of Bucyrus schools will make no changes in the religious education program in local schools, he said today. "Character building is the object of the religious education program in Bucyrus schools. Creed and sectarianism are not a part of that training," he said.

MAGAZINE EDITOR DIES

By The Associated Press

SHORT ON NAMES IN GALION PETITIONING

Special to The Star

GALION, March 13—With all councilmen and city officials reporting Friday night, names of 108 signers of the referendum petition were tallied as having requested that their names be withdrawn. The referendum petition which was filed last week by John P. Drouth, a Galion citizen, with City Auditor Gloyd A. Frye, and contained 428 signatures, would ask the board of elections for a vote at the November election on a city ordinance passed Feb. 3, setting the salary of the combined office of service and safety director at $600 per month. The petition was started on the ground that the salary is too high.

The referendum petition had to be filed with the city auditor for public inspection for a 10-day period before being filed with the Crawford county board of elections. The deadline is Sunday, and Frye's office closed at noon today.

City officials said with 108 signers off of the petition, they believed that Frye would be unable to turn it over to the board of elections because of insufficiency of signers. A referendum petition had to have about 390 signers, or 10 per cent of the vote of the last election. Drouth's petition contained 428 names when he filed it, but with 108 off, it had only 320 today.

CONCERT ASS'N. NEARS

BUCYRUS — Memberships for the Bucyrus Community Concerts association passed the 500 mark today as the campaign went into its final day. Campaign workers are aiming at a sell-out or 900 members for 1948-49 season. This will assure a budget sufficient to schedule five concerts.

day," she said.

At every stop, she and her "children" plan for the big "family" reunion in 1955 when the couples and their children will gather at the Smiths' place at Lake Elsinore. Mr and Mrs Smith plan to retire about that time and move to their big grove where tents can be placed for extra living quarters during the reunion.

Mr and Mrs Landon were with her for almost a year while they were stationed in California. While visiting the Landons Mrs Smith visited Delaware where her brother, Rev Asa P Bell, 92, of Pasadena, Calif. was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity at Ohio Wesleyan university in 1879 and 1880.

After the weekend Mr and Mrs Landon drove her to Dayton where she is to visit another couple. From Dayton she has 41 more places to visit before reaching her home in California.

Mrs. Landon's heartfelt tribute to Mrs Smith is "She's a wonderful mom and we adore her."

Floyd Dace Last Dice Game Slayer to Die

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—The state completed its three-fold penalty for the slaying of a dice game operator last night, electrocuting 22-year-old Floyd Dace.

The Cleveland Negro died in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary at 8.11 p m. Two courses of electric current were used. The penitentiary physician, Dr John B Eckstorm, refused to pronounce the man dead after the first charge.

Dace and two companions were convicted of killing Henry Lee Webb in August, 1946 during an argument over a dice game at Cleveland.

The companions, James Griffen, 26, and Robert Britton, 22, were put to death last Nov. 28.

The stocky little Dace went to his death praying in a hoarse voice.

"Lord, God, have mercy," he muttered as he walked to the old wooden electric chair. "Save my soul. Oh Heavenly Father."

As guards dropped the black rubber mask over his face, Dace repeated the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer with the prison chaplain, Rev K. E. Walls.

Acting Warden Ralph W. Alvis watched the electrocution, the first he had been called to witness.

The body was to be sent to Laurel, Miss., for burial.

Oscar Wilde Comedy Plays Ohio Theater

The former stars Paulette Goddard with Michael Wilding and Diana Wynyard, and heading the cast in the latter are John Emery and Hillary Brooke.

The former film, "An Ideal Husband," tells the gay and exciting story of beautiful Mrs. Cheveley, played by Paulette Goddard, who throws high society into a dither when she embarks on a ruthless campaign of blackmail aimed at pushing a shady financial deal through parliament. She also conducts the campaign on a more personal basis, that of forcing one of London's most fabulous bachelors to marry her. By confronting the men with their pasts, she brings complications into the lives of a prominent politician, his worshipful wife and London's most eligible bachelor.

In "Let's Live Again," John Emery portrays an atomic scientist whose brother, an explorer, flies to Tibet to investigate reported tangible proof of reincarnation and is reported dead in a plane crash. Emery is led to believe his departed brother has returned in the form of a dog which attaches himself to him. Emery then attempts to establish means of mental communication with the animal which he believes to be his brother.

Opening Tuesday to run for seven days will be the great technicolor romantic drama "The Adventures of Robin Hood." Errol Flynn in the title role and Olivia deHaviland as Maid Marian are starred, with Alan Hale as Little John and Basil Rathbone as Sir Guy, Robin Hood's enemy.

Constitution Adopted by Marion Branch of Children's Society

A constitution adopted at the second meeting of the Marion County Society for Crippled Children Thursday night at the Y.M.C.A. Earl N. Hale, president, was in charge, and Julian Gardner, field secretary for the Ohio society, answered questions regarding the society. The local constitution was patterned on that of the state organization.

In the matter of Easter seals, it was found suitable for the Ohio society office to handle sales this year with the provision that the Marion County society will share in the funds. Beginning next year, however, the seal sale will be handled by the local society, when 75 per cent of the income from the sales will go into this society's funds, the money to be used as the Marion society shall determine.

This year, the state society will allocate money to the Marion County society for its operation, if necessary up to 75 per cent on the sales. It was announced that seals are now being received by Marion residents through the mail, that anyone wishing to have seals may call Jack Lautenslager at 9672 or Mr. Hale at 3127.

Objects of the local society, incorporated in the constitution, will be the same as those of the Ohio society, to secure care, special education, vocational guidance and training, the social adjustment of the crippled and otherwise physically handicapped, and the prevention of the causes of crippling, this service to include both children and adults. Active membership is to consist of representatives of organizations, both public and private, and individuals, lay and professional, who are interested in the objects for which the society is organized.

Interest in the crippled child and adult, and participation in the meetings and activities of the Marion society will constitute membership. There will be no dues. Meetings will be held quarterly, in February, May, September and November. The meeting night and hour will be determined at a later time. Elections will be held annually, with the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. The executive committee will be composed of officers and committee chairmen and will meet monthly. Besides the executive committee, standing committees considered as being necessary to the carrying on of the organization's work include Easter seal sale, membership, information service, program, education and rehabilitation and recreation.

A meeting of the executive committee will be called within a short time, when chairmen for the various committees will be appointed, it was stated.

TO SPEAK AT KENTON

KENTON—Dr. Rollin Walker of Ohio Wesleyan university and Dr. Llewelyn Owen of the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology will be the speakers at the noon-day Holy week services to be held Monday through Thursday in the Kenton First Presbyterian church.

ERROL FLYNN AND OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND, above, are cast as Robin Hood and Maid Marian in the technicolor romance, "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which starts Tuesday at the Ohio theater to run for seven days.

BREMEN SHADES ST. MARY IRISH, 42-36, IN FINALS

Sports Shorts

By BILL DIEM
Star Sports Editor

THE honor of the female sex in the seventy-fourth running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs May 1 must be upheld by Bewitch alone, for she is the only filly among the 109 three-year-olds nominated for turfdom's classic this year . . . Her record as a two year old, however, indicates that she can meet the whole field on equal terms, her $213,675 earned last year being far above her nearest competitor . . . She won the Debutante, Hyde Park, Pollyanna, Arlington, Lassie, Princess Pat, and the Washington Park Futurity, and came in third in the Futurity Stakes . . . Her half brother, Citation, another of Calumet Farm's six nominations, was the next highest money winner of the Derby nominees, bringing owner Warren Wright $155,680 . . . Both three-year-olds were sired by Bull Lea, who also fathered Beau Dandy and Coaltown, two other Calumet entries, the latter daily gaining his stature as a Derby favorite . . . The two other Calumet entries are Free America, by Blenheim II and Whirl Blast by Whirlaway. Blenheim II is one of the few sires who have had two offspring win the Derby, the two being the famous Whirlaway, who ran the mile and a quarter, Churchill Downs tracks in 2:01 2/5 in 1941 for a record that still holds, and Jet Pilot, who won last year . . . What with the past records of Bewitch, Citation, and Coaltown, and all the blood in Free America and Whirl Blast, maybe they should make it the Calumet Derby this year.

ONE NOMINEE will have the honor of his name at stake, and that's Joseph M. Roebling's Macbeth, a chestnut colt who ran first and second in six starts last year in earning $16,200 worth of hay . . . Another Macbeth won the Derby in 1888 when that race was a mile and a half.

ALTHOUGH St. Mary didn't carry away the Central district's class B basketball title this year, they have done it before ...In 1942, St. Mary beat Claridon in the finals to win the trip to the regionals .... The Star was wrong in its story yesterday which said the Irish were shooting for the first district championship in Marion's history.

* * *

BREMEN'S 2-1-2 zone defense is a mighty tough one to crack ——The Irish had trouble all last night getting through for close shots....If their luck on long shots had continued to hold after the first period, they might have pulled the Oiler boys out, but you can't keep up making 60 per cent of your shots all evening....The Oilers had almost as much trouble with St. Mary's pressing man-for-man defense, but did get past for a couple of baskets on fast breaks ... Little Chuck Noll, Bremen foreward standing about five-six or so, whipped down the floor like a streak of lightning on the fast breaks....Marysville will have their crack at the lower bracket title when they face Worthington tonight .... They beat Worthington by a handsome margin earlier in the season.

HOT PACE IN ABC

DETROIT, March 13 — Predictions that the 1948 American Bowling Congress competition would set a new series of records were renewed today as early contestants continued to turn in outstanding scores. Heading the singles parade as the big pin spectacle went into its third day was Frank Biagi of Charleston, W. Va., whose 693 mark would have been good enough to win 15 previous tournaments.

Oilers Earn 27th Win, Trip To Regionals, on Foul Line

By BILL DIEM

Bremen's smooth Oilers came from behind to take their twenty-seventh straight win of the season and the Central district's upper bracket championship at the expense of Marion St. Mary last night by a 42 to 36 count.

That dumped the Irish out of the finals for the second year running. The Westerville gym was the scene of an Irish overtime loss to Rosary last year.

Bremen won the encounter on the foul line—both teams scored 15 field goals.

But whereas the Irish counted on but six of 18 chances at the foul line, the Oilers racked up 12 of 19 attempts.

Even at that, the victory might have been St. Mary's if the lid had not been clamped down on Dick Schuler and Jonnny Baldauf's shots in the second half. Time after time, these two lads would send in what looked like a sure thing, only to have the fickle ball bounce off the hoop and roll out.

Looked Bad for Bremen

Things looked bad for the Oilers at the start of the game as the Irish hit on nearly everything they tried, cutting out a 20-11 lead midway through the second period, but their luck subsequently ran out, and the Oilers slowly began to catch up, finally tieing up the game late in the third period. The lead changed hands four times in that last quarter, but the game was Bremen's after the official time out.

Joe Johnson cut the ice for Bremen with a field goal, but John Baldauf tied it up and Dick Schuler put the Irish into the lead they were to enjoy until the third quarter.

Baldauf added another fielder and a foul, Schuler two more fielders, and Dan Smith and Bob Stuber each scored a basket in the first period as the Irish connected on seven of 12 attempts. Most of St. Mary's shots were long ones and if they had continued the pace, they would have marked 60 points before the game was done.

Baldauf High for Irish

Baldauf ended high man for the Irish with 11 points. Schuler scored nine, Drake six, Moloney five, Smith three, and Stuber two.

The Irish didn't have so much luck in the second period, however, and scored but five points while Bremen sent in eight to creep up to within two points, 20-18, at the half.

The Irish were still off in the third period, and were outscored, 10-5, as Joe and Will Johnson began to hit for Bremen. They led the Oilers to a third period lead, 28-25.

But St. Mary recaptured the lead in the exciting final quarter and it shifted back and forth until just before the time out when Bremen center Jim Borah took the lead with a foul shot and forward Charles Noll streaked down the floor for an easy layup. The Irish couldn't get back in after that.

Hilyard Counts 15

Bremen's Bob Hilyard took game honors with 15 points. He scored at least four points in every quarter but the third, and sent in three straight in the last period. All the Oilers got into the scoring column with respectable totals the two big guards, Joe and Will Johnson counting seven and eight, and small but fast Chuck Noll counting nine. The Johnsons were demons for the foul shots, Will making two out of three, and Joe five out of eight.

After the game, Bremen was presented the championship trophy, and the Irish the runner up. Bremen will go to the regionals to represent the Central district, and the winner of tonight's Marysville - Worthington game will be the district's other representative there.

The loss was St. Mary's fifth of the season. They ended their 1947-48 campaign with 20 wins to earn one of their best records ever made at St. Mary.

GOLD MEDAL TOURNEY IN ROUND 2 TONIGHT

Carey Bursons, Martel, Fairpaco, McMillen Win Games.

Playing four games in the first round of play in the Gold Medal basketball tournament last night at the Y. M. C. A., utilizing both the upper and lower courts, Carey Burson's dropped Ashley Independents, 56-37, Martel Elevator licked Robinson Tippers, 51-45, McMillen doubled the score on G. M. Electric, 60-30, and Fairpaco V.F.W. romped over New Winchester, 54-26.

Carey Burson's cagers had little trouble with the Ashley quint, as they took a 14-11 first period lead and added to it in the subsequent quarter, with Rockingham doing most of the scoring as he counted a total of 24 points. Thomas paced the Ashley courtsters with 11 points.

Martel and Robinson Tippers battled on even terms for the better part of four quarters and were all tied up, 43 each, with less than two minutes to go. Martel hit for eight points in the last minutes to two for the Tippers to eke-out the six point victory margin. Freet and Cotsmire paced the winners with 22 and 16 points respectively, while Davidson and Stiles made 14 and 15 each for the losers.

Woolard, left handed push-shot artist and clown, pushed 16 points in leading Fairpaco, and Beers hit for 10 to pace the Winchester cagers. Fairpaco took a 17-5 lead in the first quarter and were never threatened.

Shellhorn kept his high-scoring pace by dropping 20 points for the McMillen crew, and Scheiber flipped 13 to lead the Electric boys as McMillen took an easy victory. Dick Green was exceptional on defense for the winners.

Tonight's games will send Commercial Steel against Leesville; Ada Farmers Exchange against Marion All Stars, at 7.30 p. m., and Universal Cooler vs. Marion Merchants at 8:30.

Prospect All Stars, Roxy Grill Advance To Tourney Finals; Will Meet Tonight

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, March 13—Roxy Grill came from behind last night in the final minutes of play in the Prospect Invitational tournament to eliminate Marseilles Ex-Hi's from the competition, 69-66.

Prospect All Stars, leading all the way, dumped Shlairet Transfer, 59-54, in the second game of the playoffs. The All Stars and Roxy will battle for the championship tonight on the Prospect High school planks. Marseilles and Schlairet will start the action at 7:30 to decide the third place team

Opening the firing last night, Marseilles grabbed a 28-16 first period lead as the Bower brothers started a scoring spree that eventually netted them a total of 42 points—B. Bower getting 23 and R. Bower, 19. Roxy began to hit in the second period, and before the half was reached, had scored 17 points to six for the Ex-Hi's, but were still trailing at the intermission by one point, 34-33 Reggie Moncur, sharing game honors with B. Bowers, racked 23 points. Sherry Rowland and Blair each contributed 16 tallies.

Marseilles Still Hot

The count at the end of the three-quarter mark was 50 to 47, with Marseilles still setting the pace. They faltered in the last stanza, when they were outscored, 22-16, but were actually beaten at the foul line. They hit on 30 fielders to 29 for Roxy, but the Grill team flipped 11 from the gratis line while Marseilles hit on only six.

The Prospectors, never trailing jumped to a 17-9 first quarter lead, and hung on. Schlairet, paced by Harold Dillion and Mulvaine with 16 and 17 points respectively, came back to even or surpass Prospect's scoring in the remaining three quarters, 12-12 in the second, for a 29-21 intermission score, and 19 to 18 in the third, for a 47-40 count going into the final frame. Shlairet made 14 points in the final to 12 for Prospect.

Scoring Honors Divided

Dividing the scoring almost equally among five players with totals ranging from 10 to 12 points, Prospect maintained at least a three-point advantage throughout the game. "Grinny" Smith and Williams each had 12.

Prospect will enter the finals with a record of 25-4 tonight. Winners in the finals will receive gold basketballs, affixed to tie clasps, while the runner-up team will receive the same, only in silver.

Neun Unhappy With Reds' Rookie Pitchers

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 13 — "If that's major league pitching," grumbled Johnny Neun, "then I'm a Maypole dancer."

The Cincinnati Reds' manager was expressing his displeasure over poor performances by his young throwers in the last two exhibition games.

"Why, in the last two games we played, our pitchers walked 19 men, along with uncorking a couple wild pitches," Neun said. "You can't walk everybody in the ball park and win."

The Reds were spanked by Boston Braves, 14-3, and the Detroit Tigers, 15-3. Yesterday's game with the Philadelphia Phils was rained out.

Neun announced he planned to start Johnny Vander Meer, the aging southpaw, against the New York Yankees here today.

Coach Phil Page believes Vandy may be headed for a comeback of sorts. "He looked great the few times he threw batting practice," said Page. "He isn't shot-putting the ball like he did at this time last year."

Curtain Drops Tonight On District Cage Tournaments

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Nine Class A teams and four in class B held regional berths today in Ohio's high school basketball championship.

Remainder of the "sweet 16" in each division will be filled out night as finals are staged all over the Buckeye realm. Regional events, four in class A and four in class B, will be held next week, with each classic sending a lone entrant to the state finals here April 1, 2 and 3.

Just how tough the class B division looms this year—with all of the 1947 finalists having been eliminated in the early stages—is shown by the records of the four who have battled their way through the county, sectional and district play.

Bremen Unbeaten

The four have won a total of 105 games while losing only seven. Only unbeaten team in class B is Bremen of the Central District, which last night rolled over Marion St. Mary 42-36 for its 27th straight conquest. The other qualifiers, with their records are Lima St. Rose 25-2, Miller City, 20-4, and Glenford 33-1.

In class A two big surprises hit the regional jackpot, Steubenville making the grade with a 13-13 record by turning back a good Martins Ferry team last night 57 to 56, and Stow getting in with a 27-24 win over Wadsworth. Stow has won eight of 17 games, including tournament play.

Others in the class A list of qualifiers are Columbus Central with a 25-1 record, which brushed aside thrice-beaten Grandview 59 to 55; Akron South 14-3, Cleveland Heights 15-4, Bowling Green 12-8, Mansfield Madison 20-2, Walnut Hill 18-6, and Toledo Central Catholic.

The big guns in class A—champion Middletown and unbeaten Findlay — get their qualifying chance tonight. The Middies, winners of the title three of the last four years—and nosed out of the fourth by Bellevue by two points —meet Miamisburg at Dayton and are favored to run their undefeated string to 22.

Findlay Meets Bucyrus

Findlay, with 22 straight already wrapped up, meets Bucyrus (16-4) at Findlay tonight. Hamilton Catholic, winner of 23 of 24, and expected to furnish Middletown its toughest opposition in the regional, must get by Dayton Fairmont tonight to get into the Cincinnati event with the Middies, Columbus Central and Walnut Hills.

Coshocton (16-5) meets Dover (9-9) at Dennison tonight for a class A regional berth, but the Coshoctons needed a double overtime 44-42 win over Zanesville last night to stay in the running.

Next week's class A regionals are scheduled at New Concord, Youngstown, Toledo and Cincinnati, with the class B events at Youngstown, Toledo, Athens and Springfield.

Rookie Tribe Pitcher To Get Test Today

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13— If rain clouds go away, Lyman Linde, 25-year-old righthander who hurled a no-hitter for Oklahoma City last season, will get his first test with the Cleveland Indians today.

Linde, who won 14 and lost 13 in the Texas league last summer, has a blazing fast ball, and Coaches Bill McKechnie and Mel Harder consider him one of the most promising prospects. His no-hitter, against Shreveport, was unmarred by a single walk.

Al Gettel, who's been resting a stiff shoulder, was scheduled to precede Linde against the San Francisco Seals.

The Seals and the Tribe were rained out last night to the disappointment of about 18,000 fans. The forecast for the week-end is unpromising, and Manager Lou Boudreau is worried over loss of training time.

Sunday Bob Feller is slated for his first work of the year. Feller has been throwing a little, despite a bandaged finger. He sliced the precious hand with a razor blade last week.

The Indians are slated to play Oakland Sunday morning and return across the bay to meet the Seals again Sunday afternoon
